An Angel's Speedy Fate. A coincidence of singular character is connested with the sudden death at Albion Station, Camden county, on Tuesday night, of Mrs. Parsley, the wife of Roy, J Parsley, a well known Baptist clergyman. But a few minutes before her demise she had imper, sounted an angel in a tableaux representing Faith."

Mr. Parsley, who is pastor of a leading Baptist Church and a frequent contributor to many of the most popular religious journals of the country, had taken board for himself and wife during the summer months at Alblon Station, a few miles from Camden. On Tuesday night a number of the young people at the house at which the Parsleys were stopping proposed a seri-sof charactes for the amusement of themselves and the other ity of manner and histrionic ability, was nat-urally in great demand, and the most d.ffito care any case. With each order received by as for six baxes, accompanied with $5.00, we will send the purchaser our written guarantee to refind the money if the treatment does not effect a cure. Guarantees issued only by cure and leading parts were assigned to her. The programme of the evening was carried out with great success, when some one proposed that a representation of "Fatth," with Mrs. Parsley in the role of an angel, would Mrs. Parsley in the role of an angel, would make a most fitting termination of the even-make a most fitting termination of the evening's tableaux.

To this Mrs. Parsley objected, but finally, at the urgent solicitation of the entire party, she good-humoredly consented, with the understanding that this was to be the last. In her endeavors to gain the consent of the fair player one young lady remarked in what afterward proved to be a spirit of prophecy: "Oh! Mrs. Parsley, you will make such a lovely angel." The play went on, and Mrs. Parsley, in her impersonation of an angel, bending over the prostrate form of Faith, elicited enthusiastic applause of the andience.

The curtain dropped, and immediately after Mrs. Parsley sank to the floor, complaining of a pain in the heart and abdomen. She was carried to a sofa and made as comfortable as possible, but in a very few minutes death claimed her. Heart dieesse was the cause of her death.—Philadelphia Record.

A WIEE'S TWO ATTEMPTS TO ELOPE. The arrest of George W. Morriscn of Exeter, N. H., in Boston on Thursday is the sequel to a sensational elopement. On Wednesday Morrison made two attempts to elope with Mrs. Ida Carroll. The first resulted in a lively chase and a fight with the woman's husband and brother. Mrs. Car-roll had locked up her house, left her two chlidren citting on the doorsteps, and started for the depot with Morrison. Mr. Carroll heard of it, and, with Mrs. Carroll's brother, Charles Tilton, started for the depot. The train had just arrived, and Morrison was in the act of handing Mrs. Carroll on the cars and pulled her off the step. Then Morri-son and Carroll had some hot words, and a fight was the result. Mrs. Carroll was sent home in tears, but her spirit was not daunted. Neither was that of Morrison, for within an hour they had again met and driven from town in a wagon, hotly pursued by the police. They took a train for Boston, and reached there last night. Superinten-dent Small was notified, but Morrison had reached the city too soon, and had departed, no one knew where. Morrison's baggage was left at the depot, and when he called for it Thursday he was captured. He dec'ines to tell where Mrs. Carroll is, but it is berison is 21 years old, and Mrs. Carroll is 25. CAMBLE IN AMERICA -O. W. Cannon tells a story about a drove of camels that

He says they were imported from Asla by the government for carrying supplies to troops over the plains of Texas, but were sold to an enterprising citizen after the government had done with them, and this man brought them to Helena loaded with provisions, and the grand old ships of the desert sailed over many a mountain trail carrying goods where wagons could not go They were taken out to graze in the hills adjoining Helens, and one day Jim McNeil, well known character of those days, caught sight of one of the camels as he was coming in from a prospecting tour, mistook it for a moose, and shot it down with his rifle.

The herder was promptly to the rescue and made Jim put up all the collateral he had with him as security for the snimal.

Each camel was worth about $70, and in spite of the fact that McNell did not know Montana had suddenly become a camel country he had to pay full price for his big The herd was afterward taken to California, Mr. Cannou says, and has thrived and increased there.
